MetLife Legacy Trees™

Honoring Lives with our Legacy Trees Program

A Living Tribute with Every Policy

At MetLife, we believe in honoring the memory of loved ones in a special way. The Legacy Trees Program is our pledge to plant a tree in honor of each loved one for whom MetLife has paid a Group Life Insurance benefit[1].

Why trees?

- Living memorial: Each tree stands as a living tribute to those we've lost.
- Environmental impact: Trees fight defrostation, provide clean air, offer shade and create habitats for animals.
- Community benefits: Trees help reduce erosion and flooding, making our communities safer and stronger.

How it works

When an insured individual passes away, we send a letter to their beneficiary. This letter offers our sympathy and informs them about the tree planting in their loved one's honor.

Through our partnership with the Arbor Day Foundation and their network of local tree planting partners, the tree is planted in the insured's honor.
